27TH SUNDAY OF THE YEAR A
Isaiah 5:1-7 Like His people, the Lord plants choice vines but they yield instead wild, bitter grapes.
Philippians 4:6-9 God’s peace has the power to cast out fear and anxiety so that the believer may do the work of God.
Matthew 21:33-43 The parable of the vineyard and its evil tenants, is an appeal to do the Lord’s work and not our own.
Discussion Question: What fruit have we borne as a result of our faith?
Commento: “Il dinamismo della salvezza è duplice: suppone il movimento dell’agricoltore che pianta e cura la vigna e implica di conseguenza la risposta della vigna coi suoi frutti.” G. Ravasi
Comentario Los labradores de la viña que entregan los frutos a su tiempo son los que obran con justicia y defienden el derecho sin asesinatos ni lamentos. La injusticia es la respuesta negativa que el hombre da a la esperanza y confianza que Dios ha depositado en él. Andrés Pardo

SACRAMENTAL LITURGIES:
BAPTISM
The clothing of the baby with the white garments takes place after the baptism and anointing with Chrism. The white garments now placed on the child after he or she has been baptized is a wonderful sign to the community that they have been purified and are now members of the Christian assembly. This dressing that occurs after the baptism, not when they arrive in church, reflects the action of the early church when catechumens were led out in their old garments and re-entered the church with their long white gowns that signified to all present, that they had been baptized. The white alb that the priest and deacon were are a form of this baptismal vesture. This action mirrors the words of St., Paul who reminds us that in Baptism we put on Christ.
